DISPLAY AND BUSINESS CARD ADS – DETAILS AND RATES

The deadline is the first of the month for display and business card ad artwork, payment and repeat requests.

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

Advertising must be prepaid, except as noted below; see "Payment" paragraph above for details. Late ads will be run only if space and time permit. Since artwork is reduced to 63% in the printing process, originals must be the artwork size listed below. Do not send in artwork on art board or send negatives. Ads should be typeset or typed neatly with a carbon ribbon, black ink (not pencil) on white. If used, reverse type must be limited to 25% of the ad. If you want us to prepare your ad, include the one-time cost below for A.R.C. to make up the ad.

Photos should be at an 85-line screen; otherwise, add $14.00 per photo for screening. Do not cut or trim photos or glue photos to artwork; submit separately.

If you are confused by these requirements and terms, please contact A.R.C. before beginning to prepare your ad. We will be happy to advise you on your ad ideas, estimate how much the ad will cost, recommend an ad size, etc.

We assume that advertisers want all ads which are submitted to run without delay; therefore, we will run the ad and bill for any additional work required for the ad to meet these specifications. A late ad will run beginning with the next month. "Tear sheets" will be sent only for 1/8-page or larger ads and only if requested when the ad is submitted.

Business card ads are limited to one per advertiser.

The 3-month rates represent about an 11% discount, the 6-month rates 23%, the 12-month rates 30%. Placement requests: add 15% but call first. Clubs: write for discount policy.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Antique Radio Classified has reached a new milestone — June 1995 marks our eleventh anniversary, another year in our successful effort to publish a quality magazine for radio collectors. Looking back, we realize that we have come a long way since that first 16-page issue of June 1984 created by Cleveland, Ohio, radio collector Gary Schneider.

Gary envisioned a single magazine for radio collectors of all interests and from all organizations. In 1986, your current editor purchased A.R.C. from Gary, and today 100-plus pages are sent monthly to over 8,000 readers. We at A.R.C. thank all of you for your part in making Gary's vision a success.

The early receiver on our cover this month is the Type 93 long wave receiver from the Radio Apparatus Company. After collector Ron Frisbie had purchased the set early this year, he sent a photo to A.R.C. wondering whether we were interested in an article. Our response was a resounding "yes!"

We asked Ron to have professional photos shot and get the material to us ASAP so it could be used in our anniversary issue. The finishing touches are still being made to his article as we write this page.

No doubt our readers will enjoy Ron's story of how he came to own this set, as well as learn something about it and the company that produced it. Following Ron's article is more information on the Radio Apparatus Co., compiled from the research of several of our contributing writers.

Insight into the much aggrieved inventor Edwin Armstrong may be gained from David Springer's story of a friend's personal experience in the late 1940s. Armstrong gave a Zenith radio to several law firm employees who worked on his defense in his court battles with David Sarnoff. Springer's article includes Armstrong's letter of thanks.

The results of three auctions — VRPS, Harris and Burt's — are reported in this issue, along with numerous photos of auctioned items. Occasionally, very rare items are included, and one such item is the Persian King horn speaker by Doulton, which sold for $825 in the Harris auction. Many thanks to George and Michael Potter, Joe Svihel and Jim Boellstorf for furnishing these reports.

Larry Babcock did what every serious collector does on vacation — attend club meets along the way. Larry reports on the first and highly successful meet of the new Central Pennsylvania Radio Collectors Club in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

If you want to take your 1920s battery set to the beach and arouse considerable interest, read Dwane Stevens' article. He describes the potential for increased portability if transistorized tubes are used instead of vintage tubes.

Photo Review this month is expanded to three pages and covers items from crystal sets to consoles. As always, Radio Miscellanea includes comments, tips, and inquiries from our readers. In addition, we print two early radio reminiscences prompted by our July 1994 article on Harry Kalker.

Problems with Advertisers. Unfortunately, "Printed Without Comment" (see below) continues this month. Please read last month's Editor's Comments for more details on this issue.

A.R.C. serves as a clearinghouse for disputes between readers, so please let us know about any problems that you have not been able to resolve yourself. Although A.R.C. cannot accept responsibility for problems, we do try to help readers resolve them. We also coordinate multiple complaints about specific individuals. If you are having difficulty with an individual and efforts to resolve the problem yourself have failed, please write or fax A.R.C., since yours may not be an isolated case.

Flash! Exciting New Book. A striking new Marconi book — Early Radio — beautifully illustrated, is available from A.R.C. (See centerfold to order.)

Coming Radio Events. Thirty-eight events are scheduled in June, highlighted by Radioactivity '95. And, be sure your plans for the rest of 1995 include Extravaganza '95 in July, Radiofest '95 in August, the AWA Conference in September, and the VRPS/AWA '95 meet in October. A.R.C. will be at Radiofest '95, the AWA Conference, and the VRPS/AWA meet, so look for us and say "Hi."

Happy collecting.

PRINTED WITHOUT COMMENT

As of May 11, 1995, A.R.C. has received reports from five individuals who have wired funds (a total of over $6,200) to Kent A. Ise (of Florida as of early April and previously of Warwick, R. I.). These people have not received the items promised, nor have they been able to contact Ise. Others were offered items by Ise but did not send him funds. It is reported that he offers scarce items at reasonable prices and asks that funds be wired to him via Western Union.

A.R.C. asks anyone who has been offered items by Ise to report the details in writing or by fax to A.R.C., even if funds were not sent, so that we can assist in the investigation. Also, report the incident to Western Union and/or your credit card company, if involved. We understand that Western Union has a wire fraud investigation underway.

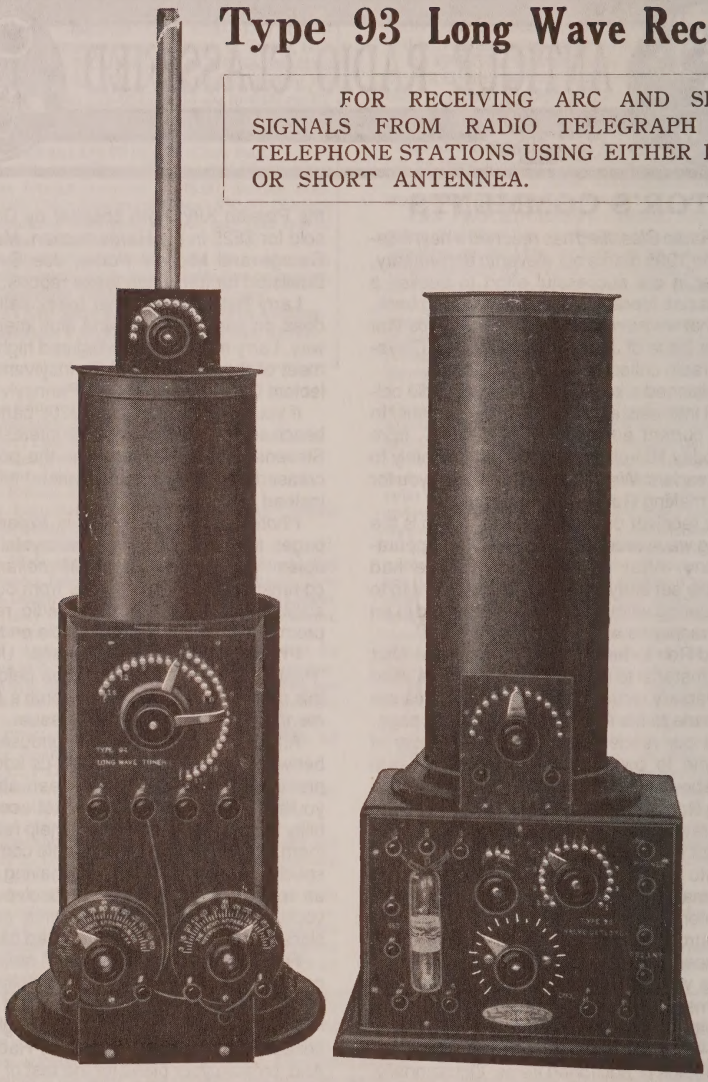
ON THE COVER

Our front cover shows the Type 93 long wave receiver manufactured by the Radio Apparatus Company of Pottstown, Penna. The set is from Ron Frisbie's collection, and he contributes our lead article this month. Note that the variable capacitors and the tubular AudioTron shown in the cover photo are replacements since originals were not available.

Our back cover shows an advertising flyer for the Liberty vacuum valve — the tubular AudioTron that was used with the Type 93 long wave receiver.

Type 93 Long Wave Receiver

FOR RECEIVING ARC AND SPARK SIGNALS FROM RADIO TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE STATIONS USING EITHER LONG OR SHORT ANTENNEA.



HAVE you enjoyed the thrill of listening to the piercing whistle of the numerous undamped wave stations now operating here and abroad? Well! the pleasure is all yours, especially so, as the number of stations using this method of transmission is increasing yearly over the entire globe. Additionally, wireless telephone speech is being flashed quarter way around the earth, in all these achievements long waves are used.

The tone of the undamped signals can be varied from the lowest known to inaudibility, it is therefore possible to select any pitch best suited for receiving, this phenomena is indeed interesting and in strong contrast to the spark method whose tone is fixed.

THE NEW Type 93 Long Wave Receiver

A full-page advertisement from a ca.1920 Radio Apparatus Company catalog. The ad says, "The new Type 93 long wave receiver is truly a TRACO product, original in design, and operates efficiently on wavelengths from 300 to 18,000 meters. A glance at the illustration will disclose the advantages of the vertical mounting over the cumbersome horizontal method which, as many know, almost requires work to operate, and, in addition, often requires unnecessary space on the operating table. Our method is indisputably the ideal."

WITH THE COLLECTORS

Radio Apparatus Company — Pottstown, Pennsylvania
Type 93 Long Wave Receiver

BY RON FRISBIE

An anniversary issue calls for something special. We think we've found it in Ron Frisbie's article on his rare Radio Apparatus Company Type 93 receiver, which will certainly create a lot of excitement among collectors of early gear. Several other individuals have contributed additional information to this article. Among them are Alan Douglas, historian and author of the 3-volume "Radio Manufacturers of the 1920's;" Lauren Peckham, collector, historian, and past president of the Antique Wireless Association; Jim Kreuzer, proprietor of New Wireless Pioneers; and your editor John Terrey. (Editor)

Many years ago, Mel Comer, a friend and a well-known radio collector, said, "Never knowing what you are about to find, or when, is the fun of radio collecting." Avid radio collectors know that truer words were never spoken, and I urge those of you who have a feeling that there is very little possibility today of finding some rare piece that has been sitting in the corner of an attic to read on.

About three months ago, Curtis Nace, an antique dealer at Renninger's Flea Market in Adamstown, Pennsylvania, visited a general auction house hoping to find a phonograph. While browsing, he discovered the apparatus which is pictured on the cover of this issue of A.R.C. and in Figure 1. No one, including the auctioneer or Nace, knew what the pieces were. In fact, the three units that together comprise the Type 93 long wave receiver — a Type 94 receiving transformer, a Type 36 valve detector, and a loading inductance coil — were scattered at random among the junk. An advertisement for the Type 93 long wave receiver from an early Radio Apparatus catalog is shown on the opposite page.

Nace occasionally buys and sells radios, and when he noticed the label on the top of the long wave tuner reading "The Radio Apparatus Co., Engrs. & Mfrs. Pottstown, Penna., U. S. A.," he realized that perhaps he had come upon something unusual. He immediately decided to group the three pieces so that they would be sold in one lot. By the time the apparatus came to the auction block, two other dealers had shown interest, but dropped out of the bidding when they realized Nace was intent on outbidding them.

After carefully packing his new purchase, Nace took the pieces to his shop where he promptly displayed them on the counter. As knowledgeable collectors walked by and marveled at his recent find, he quickly learned that he had, indeed, found something not only rare, but valuable as well.

The word traveled so rapidly that within two days, he was receiving calls from as far away as 700 miles. Because of the interest generated, he decided to take the pieces to his home and ask for bids. [Even your editor was shown a photo of the three pieces by a collector at the Radio XXVI meet and was tempted to get into the bidding.] I was pleased to be the successful bidder. Now you know the story of how I came to own this rare set.

Researching the history of the Radio Apparatus Co. of Pottstown, Pa., revealed very little. It appears that the company was in business for fewer than five years (1916-1920). An ad in the December 1916 issue of QST lists the long wave tuner at $25, the variable condensers at $4 each, the Audiotron bulb at $5, the Type 36 valve detector at $17, and the loading inductance coil at $5.50. For the affluent, the price for all the pieces, without phones, was $55, a savings of $5.50. However, since the average weekly wage for a working man in 1916 was $10, very few could afford to purchase all the pieces at one time.

The ad goes on to say that the Type 93 receiving set was designed to receive arc and spark stations and has a wavelength of 300 to 18,000 meters on a moderate-sized antenna (100 feet long and 60 feet high). It would easily tune in the fascinating signals of the powerful German stations POZ and OUI with surprising clearness. We must remember that the period was World War I, and it was quite understandable that wireless amateurs were very interested in listening to signals emanating from the enemy.

The ad also states that the Type 94 long wave receiving transformer (vertical loose coupler) is 32 inches high and unique in that the counterbalanced secondary eliminates all difficulty in tuning; it instantly responds to the slightest touch and remains in any position it has been placed. Figure 2 shows the coupler in various positions, and Figure 3 shows a close-up of the panel. The balanced weight is contained in the long brass tube which permits the secondary to be loose-coupled for 16 inches, resulting in very selective tuning. Figure 4 shows the 1-inch pulley attached to the top of the brass rod which accommodates the movement of the counter-balanced secondary. Figure 5 shows a close-up of the smaller tap switch.

The Type 36 valve detector, shown in Figure 6, was advertised in the November/December 1919 issue of Everyday Engineering. The article states that a tubular audion bulb is mounted on the front panel which produces a pure electron discharge. The telephone battery is enclosed in the cabinet and has a pressure of 40 volts which could be finely adjusted by the 19-point high voltage switch. (In the early years, the word "telephone" was frequently used to designate headphones.) To renew the batteries, it was necessary only to remove several screws on the panel, thereby displacing the cabinet and making renewal easy. Figure 7 shows the paper label on the bottom of the Type 36 valve detector.

was machine-wound with enameled wire on a very substantial 5½-inch diameter tube fitted with a positive contact switch on the bottom, which allows for sufficiently fine variation. The overall height of the coil measures 15 inches.

Other descriptive information on the Type 93 continuous long wave receiver states that it operates on a regenerative principle, resulting in much greater amplification. It also states that the tone of the undamped signals could be varied from the lowest known tone to inaudibility, resulting in the possibility of selecting any pitch that was best suited for receiving and reading the signals. Figure 9 shows the schematic for the receiver.

It's hard to believe that all of this equipment, including the beautiful, colorful labels on the bottom of each piece, remains in almost mint condition after sitting and collecting dust for nearly 80 years. About the time the company had perfected one of the best loose couplers on the market, loose couplers had become obsolete, and so it was with the Radio Apparatus Co. of Pottstown, Pa.

Ron Frisbie has been in the telephone industry for 48 years. His interest in radio began in 1931 at age nine when he constructed his first 1-tube receiver. A serious collector for 16 years, he specializes in early wireless and battery sets. In 1993, he fulfilled his longtime ambition to open a museum where one-quarter of his 1600 receivers are displayed.

More on The Radio Apparatus Company

COMPILED FROM INFORMATION CONTRIBUTED BY ALAN DOUGLAS, JIM KREUZER, LAUREN PECKHAM, & JOHN TERREY

Information is difficult to find on the Radio Apparatus Company. A.R.C. wishes to thank those listed above for sharing their knowledge and files on the Radio Apparatus Company. (Editor)

Our search through early radio literature yielded very few catalogs and advertisements for the "Radio Apparatus Company, Pottstown, Penna." The first advertisement, which was for the Model 5 and 5A loose couplers (traditional, horizontal-style units) appeared in QST for December 1915 (QST's third issue), and then in the July and August 1916 issues. The first ad for the Type 93 receiver appeared in QST for December 1916 and was repeated in three 1917 issues.

Following the end of World War I (during World War I, experimenters were not allowed to broadcast and QST was not published), the Radio Apparatus Company advertised in QST and also in Everyday Engineering. Items from the Radio Apparatus Co. also appeared in the National Radio Supply Co. catalog.

In the November 1921 issue of Radio News, an ad appeared for "American Brass Products Company, Radio Division, Pottstown, Penna." which stated: "Prices cut in half. We have purchased the entire stock of The Radio Apparatus Company..." Apparently, this ad signaled the end of the Radio Apparatus Co. itself.

The literature search also revealed ads and a catalog for the "Radio Apparatus Company of America, Parkway Building, Philadelphia, Pa.," apparently a different firm. Their items were mostly components and the dimensions of their catalog were smaller: 5" wide x 6 ¾" high, rather than 6" wide x 9 ½" high. Their earliest catalog found was dated 1914 and their ads appeared in QST in 1916.

A different Type 93 long wave receiver was shown in the pre- and post-World War I ads. In the earlier ads, the Type 36 valve detector shows Fahnestock clips (see Figure 10). The later version shows different tap switch arms on the Type 36 valve detector and ordinary hard-rubber binding posts. Also, a Liberty detector valve tube is clearly identifiable.

The later Type 94 vertical tuner also shows changes from the pre-World War I version — slightly different binding posts, different knobs for tap switches, etc. The biggest change is the fact that only two capacitors are shown instead of three.

Possibly, the Frisbie set was manufactured without variable capacitors since samples from the Peckham collection and the AWA Museum have none either. Peckham feels that it is doubtful that all three of these sets "lost" their variable capacitors over the years. However, a Type 94 with two capacitors, as shown in ads for the year 1920, is known to be on display in another collection.

The Radio Apparatus Co. did sell components separately. For example, its radio condenser, shown in Modern Electrics magazine for 1914 is described as a "mica dialectric" for use as a phone condenser. The price was $1.50. Apparently, a lot of amateurs bought the tuner sans the capacitors, a saving of $3.00 to $4.50!

Thanks From Major Armstrong: A Zenith 7H822

BY DAVID SPRINGER

David Springer's article relates a little-known vignette out of the complicated legal history of the battle between E.H. Armstrong and RCA's David Sarnoff over FM royalty rights. This 1948 story is confirmed by a letter, printed here in part, from Carolyn Hodges, who was the recipient of a "thank-you" FM radio from Armstrong himself. (Editor)

Regeneration, the superheterodyne, and frequency modulation (FM) — in other words, radio as we know it — was developed by the genius of Edwin Howard Armstrong. He was affectionately known as "the Major," a nickname stemming from his promotion in the U.S. Army Signal Corps during World War I.

After Armstrong had demonstrated FM from his lab in New York's Empire State Building in 1933, a gulf developed between him and RCA president David Sarnoff, often called, "the General." [This title created a classic case of one-upmanship for the Major, who felt beleaguered by the "Pharisees," as indicated in his letter in Figure 1.] For a detailed account of this rift, see Empire of the Air by Tom Lewis.

At first, Sarnoff was not interested in FM, since it meant a new broadcasting system, and it rendered the millions of AM receivers obsolete. Later, he realized FM's potential and offered the Major a million dollars for the patent. Armstrong refused, and the gulf widened.

Armstrong resolved to develop FM on his own and made considerable progress before World War II. In 1944, David Sarnoff successfully lobbied the FCC to shift the FM band from the "old" band (42-48.7 Mc) to a "new" band (88-108 Mc). Furthermore, it became clear that the audio standard for the postwar television industry would change from AM to FM. Sarnoff decided to ignore Armstrong's patent. RCA would build its own FM circuits, and other large electronics manufacturers were encouraged to follow suit.

The Major was continually battling in the courts for the royalty rights that were his due. He was to win in the end, because his widow carried on the fight after the Major committed suicide in January of 1954.

In 1948, a year of legal battles, the Major sent the thank-you letter, shown in Figure 1, to members of a law office who had gone the extra mile to help him. He also said "thanks" by sending each member of the secretarial staff a brand new Zenith Model 7H822 AM/FM radio, as shown in Figure 2.

Zenith was one manufacturer who gave Armstrong credit for his genius. For several years, beginning with the 1946 Model 8H034, christened "The Major," and its kin, Zenith placed an oval emblem on the back of each set. The emblem proclaimed "The Armstrong System."

Carolyn Hodges, one of the recipients of Major Armstrong's "thank-you" radios, contributes an account of the gift in her letter presented below. Together, she and her husband Ray have given the little Zenith a good home, and yes, the set still works fine — after all, it was "blessed" by its inventor!

On Receiving a Zenith Gift

In 1948, I was employed at Dow, Lohnes and Albertson, a communications law firm in Washington, D.C., as secretary to Horace L. Lohnes, senior partner. The law firm represented Major Edwin H. Armstrong in various radio matters before the Federal Communications Commission, but especially in his experimental FM stations — five in number, I believe.

During the summer of 1948, several members of the secretarial staff were asked to work overtime on a case involving Major Armstrong. Members of the New York firm of Cravath, Swaine and Moore were involved in this case and needed information from Dow, Lohnes and Albertson. Now, I do not recall whether this was a case before the FCC or whether it involved Armstrong's patent infringement case against RCA and Philco. We worked until about 2 A.M. to prepare the information.

The Zenith FM radio was given to each of us for this work, as indicated in Major Armstrong's memorandum.

At various times during my years with Dow, Lohnes and Albertson, I contacted Major Armstrong's office concerning the renewal of the experimental FM licenses. At one point, my husband Ray was also directly involved in those renewal applications as a law clerk in the firm.

Dear Frances,
Carolyn,
Emma,
Margaret :

Delighted to hear from you all and that your little sets are behaving themselves.

Be sure to get an antenna on them for best results and - if any of them fail to behave themselves - be sure to let me know and we will fix them up.

With many thanks to you all again for your help in overcoming the works of the "Pharisees",

Most sincerely yours,

Edwin H. Armstrong

RADIO MISCELLANEA

"Antique Radio Classified" invites its readers to contribute letters and information for inclusion in "Radio Miscellanea" and elsewhere in the magazine. The topic should be of general interest and sent to A.R.C., P.O. Box 2, Carlisle, MA 01741. All material submitted should be verified for accuracy and may be edited for publication, which is not guaranteed. See the masthead for more details.

International Directory Announced

Dear Editor:

Our goal is to have The International Directory of Antique Radio Collectors ready for distribution in the fall of 1995. This directory contains data on collectors and on sources of all forms of antique electronics. Names of collectors in the U. S. are listed alphabetically by state. Internationally, collectors are listed alphabetically by country. There is a general alphabetical listing of all collectors and their countries or states for cross-referencing. A listing of all museums, clubs, and dealers is included also.

We ask collectors and clubs to request our application forms (SASE please). Write to Friends of Radio Antiquity, P.O. Box 253, Sandy, UT 84091-0253, or call 801-571-5453.

We hope the directory will serve as a wonderful guide to contact others with similar interests locally, by mail, or when traveling.

N.R.I. Tube Tester Adapter Needed

Dear Editor:

I have a Model 66 N.R.I. tube tester. It is fitted with a socket for subminiature tubes with in-line pins. But the setup manual does not have the setups for these tubes, such as the 5602, etc., Raytheons. I have several round-base subminiatures and all sorts of data on characteristics. Apparently, I will need an adapter for the round type and setting charts for these tubes on my N.R.I. tester.

Thanks to A.R.C. from Clubs

Dear Editor,

The Vintage Radio Unique Society (VRUS) appreciates the efforts of all staff members responsible for the fine job of advertising our trade/meet in Greensboro, N. C., on October 1, 1994. I am confident that those efforts contributed to the attendance and success of our largest event to date! Thank you all!

We continue to acknowledge the publications that run notices of our meets, and for A.R.C., our acknowledgement is a tradition. A display/reference copy of A.R.C. at our meets always draws the interest of attendees who haven't seen one. We also verbally credit A.R.C. We trust new subscriptions have resulted.

Jerryl Sears, Winston-Salem, NC

Among the many sources of positive feedback on our club articles and listings are club publications. For example, the December 1994 Canadian Vintage Radio Society (CVRS) publication "Radio Waves" contains an article about the club's dramatic growth during the past year. It credits as one factor "a story that A.R.C. ran in this last quarter. The publicity brought us more members from all over Canada and the United States."

Such positive feedback must mean that we're getting results, and that the word is spreading about the pleasures of club activities. (Editor)

Deodorizer Suggestion

Dear Editor:

In response to Leslie M. Orsetti's request for a method of removing bad odors from radios, I found a scented product called "Odor Grabber" at a local shop — In the Spirit of Gifts, 3058 E 65th St., Inver Grove Hts., MN 55076.

I placed the product inside the radio cabinet and enclosed the radio in a large plastic bag. How much musty smell the radio has will determine how long the radio should be kept in the plastic bag.

The scents I have used are "Rainforest," "Evergreen," and "Lemon." Odor Grabber did not appear to harm the finish of the radios.

Wooden Regal Identified

Dear Editor:

I am responding to the April 1995 Photo Review, page 12, regarding the Regal Ultradyne. I too have one just like this. It's a Regal Model L-46, and I have a Sams Folder about it, which I'd share with anyone needing a copy. I've been to all the big meets for over ten years now, and I have never seen another L-46 before or since finding mine at Lansing in 1991.

David P. Smith, Olney, IL

That makes three wooden Regals out there. (Editor)

New Format, Good Compromise

Dear Editor:

Your new format in the November A.R.C. is great. Should satisfy both the "Split it into 'For Sale' and 'Wanted' " camp and the "Leave it as it is" camp. As for me, I read 'em all.

Gerald Larsen, Elmwood Park, IL

RCA 76 Console Nostalgia

Dear Editor:

Figure 1 in Doug Houston's Vintage Broadcasting article in the March 1995 issue of A.R.C. was a pleasant, nostalgic surprise. The central item, the RCA 76 console, was my first design assignment at RCA Indianapolis back in 1939. It was a very versatile piece of equipment, manufactured for several years. It may have been the first manufactured item to use the then new VU meter, the 1620, 1621, and 1622 tubes, special push-button switches for function selection, and unique ladder pad attenuators.

After the 76B console design was completed, I had to design rack mounting sections of it for use by the Custom Studio Systems group.

Somewhere I may have copies of instruction books for my RCA "Speech Input" equipment designs of '39-'41, which I cherish.

Thanks for publishing Doug's excellent article; it brought back the past for me.

PHOTO REVIEW

This column presents in pictorial form many of the more unusual radios, speakers, tubes, advertising, and other old radio-related items from our readers' collections. The photos are meant to help increase awareness of what's available in the radio collecting hobby. Send in any size photos from your collection. Photos must be sharp in detail, contain a single item, and preferably have a light-colored background. A short, descriptive paragraph MUST be included with each photo. Please note that receipt of photos is not acknowledged, publishing is not guaranteed, and photos are not returned.

PATHÉ CONE SPEAKER – This lighted Pathé cone speaker is 21" tall and 18" in diameter. There are two lights between the column and cone, and when lit, the column resembles a church. (Don Howland – Spokane, WA)

PHILMORE SUPER RADIO CRYSTAL SET – The 1940s crystal set pictured on this original carton was very popular with children. The Deco style lightning bolts on the box probably implied that this was a powerful little receiver! (Robert Bailey – Jacksonville, FL)

EMERSON MODEL UNKNOWN – This set, ca. 1935, is unique in that every cabinet surface is curved, except for the grille. All the wood used is burl walnut. (Bob Barnes – Monroe City, MO)

ADMIRAL MODEL 4203-B6 – A 1942 AM table radio with an AC-DC chassis and a walnut veneered cabinet, this radio was also available in a plastic cabinet. (Robert Bailey – Jacksonville, FL)

MAJESTIC MODEL 551 – This ivory Bakelite 1937 set with a vented Bakelite back has both a broadcast and a shortwave band. The cabinet measures 8" x 12" x 7⅜". (Don Howland – Spokane, WA)

CARRON MFG MODEL TEE-NIE CRYSTAL SET – This little crystal set measures only 5" wide, 3½" tall and 2¾ deep. The cutouts on the front panel give the illusion that this is a small table radio. (Robert Bailey – Jacksonville, FL)

RCA MODEL 10-T-1 – This 1935 tombstone is very large, measuring 20" x 17½" x 13¾". The set uses 10 tubes and operates on broadcast and shortwave bands. (Richard Arnold – Lone Grove, OK)

THE RADIO SHOP MODEL UNKNOWN – Made in Sunnyvale, California, this 1-tube battery set carries Serial Number 1493. If you have any further information about this California product, please send it to A.R.C. (Bob Barnes – Monroe City, MO)

PHILMORE BLACKBIRD CRYSTAL SET – This crystal set has a metal cabinet with a black wrinkle finish. The clear crystal dome, which is often missing, is still present. Hookup instructions are on the bottom. (Robert Bailey – Jacksonville, FL)

RCA "CLOCK" SIGN – This early to mid-1930s backlit RCA clock is 20" in diameter. Framed in gold, it is colored red, white, blue and black, with all lettering outlined in silver. (Don Howland – Spokane, WA)

PHILCO MODEL 17B – This rare cathedral, with 11 tubes and 2 bands, uses "shadow" tuning. Only 2,300 sets were produced. (Bob Barnes – Monroe City, MO)

PHILIPS MODEL B8E 292-A – This impressive set was made in Spain in 1959. It has separate speakers (not shown). The quality performance of this set makes it comparable to hi-fi sets of today. (Jose Ramon Rodriquez Vayquez – Luga, Spain)

CROSLEY MODEL 655M – This 5-tube console was found at a flea market, along with its original shipping box. (William Atchison – South Saint Paul, MN)

AUCTION REPORT

VRPS 1995 Spring Auction Report
Irving, Texas — March 25, 1995

COMPILED BY GEORGE AND MICHAEL POTTER

The annual Vintage Radio & Phonograph Society (VRPS) Spring Auction was held at the Holiday Inn South DFW, in Irving, Texas, on March 25, 1995.

Traditionally, Texas has some rough weather at this time of the year, and again it met expectations. The wind and rain were blowing so hard you could barely open the back doors for loading equipment! That didn't stop the auction from surpassing last year's event. Sales totalled $16,511, with 376 items sold and 68 passes.

Some highlights of the auction were a beautiful Zenith 10-S-452 chairside with tuning eye which went for $230, a Crosley neon sign for $225, a Majestic 20 grandfather clock nicely restored for $375, a Radiola 26 portable for $200, a Cord mirror Deco radio for $120, and to round it off, a Western Coil WC12 Radiodyne for $425!

No guarantee is made as to the condition or status of the items listed below. Miscellaneous gear, incomplete listings, and boxes of tubes have been excluded from the list.

Vintage Radio Auction Marshalltown, Iowa — April 1, 1995

CONTRIBUTED BY JIM BOELLSTORFF

The Gene Harris Antique Auction Center in Marshalltown, Iowa, held its fifth annual radio auction Saturday, April 1, 1995. Tom Harris was the auctioneer for the sale which drew 133 registered bidders for over 575 lots of merchandise.

Auction highlights were a jade green earthenware speaker, the "Persian King" by Doulton and Co., less driver, which went for $825; a Zenith 12-S-265 console for $700; and an Atwater Kent sales recognition award silver cup, with some dents, for $350.

To illustrate the changing and variable composition of auction offerings, at this sale transistor and transistor novelties were down in numbers, demand for Catalins was off, and good battery sets were scarce.

The following listing is a selection of lots from the auction. Some model numbers were missing, and accuracy of the report is not guaranteed.

Central Pennsylvania Radio Collectors Club First Meet — New Club Forming Williamsport, Pa. — February 25, 1995

BY LARRY BABCOCK

Each winter my wife Dot and I like to take a trip south to avoid a little of the Buffalo, New York, winter weather. This year we decided to time it so we could check out the meet of the new Central Pennsylvania Radio Collectors Club in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, on February 25, 1995.

The location was easy to find. We simply followed the instructions and got off Route 15 at the Maynard Street exit. The meet was held in the Trinity Episcopal Church. You could see the church steeple a few blocks north as you left the thruway. Parking was easy, and the entire meet was held in the second-floor gymnasium. It was well heated and lit, and there was even appropriate music playing in the background. The pleasant location invited a lot of socializing. Admission was $1.00 — you can't beat that!

There were about 25 tables of old radio flea market items. I saw a mint National SW-3 complete with all the accessories for $300. Lots of people want that set.

Other tables displayed members' radios. Among them were a World War I submarine set, a Grebe CR-9, and a 3-tube Atwater Kent breadboard.

An interesting story evolved when one fellow told me he had a very unusual early radio, which used no tubes and which was designed to snatch energy right from the air with its many extended coils of wire! After I had seen the radio, I decided he had a typical 3-dialer TRF set with two extra sets of 4-pin, plug-in coils.

The coils were tall, elliptical basket coils, and five were plugged into the sockets intended to hold the 01-A tubes. Three more were plugged into the proper coil sockets. There were no tubes in the set.

I didn't have the heart to tell the owner that he needed five 01-A tubes for his set and that one of his plug-in coils was missing; however, the expert, Lauren Peckham, agreed with me, so it had to be true!

This was this new club's first meet. Cofounders Mike Heffner and Frank Hagenbuch weren't sure when the next meet would be held, as this one was just a trial balloon. Attendance was certainly good enough to call the meet a success.

I had seen the meet advertised in A.R.C., as did many others, including Ludwell Sibley and Bob Warren. That notice in A.R.C. helped this new club a lot.

Everyone agreed that the event was well planned, and would probably be even bigger and better if held again next year. We enjoyed the lunch that was served before we continued on our journey south.

My wife and I like the date of one month prior to the Washington, Pennsylvania, meet. That way we can attend one event as we begin our trip south in search of warmer weather, and also attend the second event, as we reluctantly head back north to Buffalo, knowing that spring is still a long way off. So, we hope we can look forward to Williamsport '96!

Transistorized Tubes

Solid-State Portability for 1920s Vintage Radios

BY DWANE STEVENS

You're at the beach on a beautiful afternoon enjoying the sun, the surf and music from your Sony boombox? No! — not from the latest import but from a good old made-in-America 1920s vintage TRF set.

Well sure, you say, anybody can do that if you lug along your A, B, and possibly C batteries, or if you have a very long extension cord for the old battery eliminator. But why not do it the easy way, as I did, with solid-state tube substitutes which require only a few milliamps from 9-volt transistor batteries?

Figure 1 shows my wife and me at lakeside enjoying my "transistorized" 1925 Freshman Masterpiece TRF with a 9-volt battery pack inside the cabinet. The horn speaker is a Radiola UZ-1325, of 1923 vintage, while the loop antenna is homemade, 1993 vintage. (See my article in the February 1993 issue of A.R.C., page 5, about making your own loop).

You might be surprised at the reaction you receive from people when they hear music emanating from that "funny looking speaker" connected to that "wooden box with big dials" and that "weird antenna." Of course, some couldn't care less, and they give you looks that suggest that you might be better off at the funny farm. But others are genuinely interested and on occasion, this provides an opportunity to introduce them to the fascinating world of antique radio collecting.

There have been interesting articles in A.R.C. about using transistors as replacements for tubes, such as Richard Botzum's article, "A Wooden WD-11 for the Aeriola Sr." in the February 1993 issue, pages 24-25. Transistors can substitute for practically any of the older tube types.

If you are not a do-it-yourselfer, you might want to do as I did when making your favorite TRF "solid-state." Mr. Jacob Anthes of the Antique Radio Tube Company, Box 52, Lutz Road, Glidden, WI 54527, offers a unique service to all antique radio buffs — that of restoring burned-out antique tubes to full operation. [Check his ad in A.R.C.] He does this by installing an electronic module in the base of the tube. Each tube looks original and untouched but now operates strictly from a module containing resistors, a capacitor and a transistor. With Mr. Anthes' permission, I have shown in Figure 2 the basics of his conversion for a Type 201-A vacuum tube. A tube converted for detector use contains a 1N34 diode, in addition to the other components.

I sent Mr. Anthes six 1920s dud Type 01-A tubes for a 1990s state-of-the-art conversion and was very pleased with the results. He works with several different tube types, but I was only interested in 01-As at the time.

Two different modules are available. One is for use as both an AF and RF amplifier and the other for use as a detector. When sending tubes to be converted, you must indicate whether you want an amplifier or a detector. In my case I needed five amplifier tubes and one detector tube. I used a CeCo 201-A as a detector, and Figure 3 shows the converted tube as Mr. Anthes clearly identified it for detector use. Converted amplifier tubes and converted detector tubes cannot be interchanged in the radio.

Performance of the solid-state substitute, whether an amplifier or a detector, matches an original tube. Therefore, you can substitute only one tube, if you desire, out of the entire tube lineup without making any changes or adjustments. I chose to replace every tube so that I could operate the entire radio from five 9-volt transistor batteries (45 volts).

Mr. Anthes explained to me that he uses a high voltage bipolar transistor instead of FETs because he found FETs susceptible to damage from lightning and static discharges. (Always disconnect an outside antenna during storms).

I also found these tubes to be a quick and easy way to check out a set. After buying the Freshman Masterpiece at a recent auction of the Vintage Radio and Phonograph Society in Irving, Texas, I checked it out first with my converted tubes. The set didn't work at first because of a filament wiring problem created sometime in the distant past. But after correcting this problem, I was very happy to find that all interstage tuned circuits were operational, and with my 9-volt transistor batteries attached and an outdoor long-wire connected, music freely poured from the headphones.

If you use all transistorized tubes in your radio, one single power source is needed. This power source can be constructed by wiring five 9-volt batteries in series. There are no filaments to light up and the power hookup is quite simple. A power supply hookup, based on the schematic diagram for a typical 1920s radio shown in Figure 4, is described as follows:

The A-, B-, C-, and C+ points are tied together and connected to the negative terminal of the battery pack. Likewise, the B+ Power, B+ 67 and B+ 22½ points are connected to the positive terminal of the battery pack. Leave A+ unconnected so that you will be able to turn your radio off and on by using the radio's filament switch.

If all tubes are replaced with transistor substitutes, the usual way of controlling volume by reducing filament voltage will not work. You must either slightly de-tune the received station or use a 10K pot connected between the antenna and the antenna-ground input connections on the radio.

I keep an Atwater Kent Model 33 by my bedside equipped with "converted" tubes and a 9-volt battery pack tucked inside the cabinet. Beside the radio is an RCA horn connected to the "house wiring antenna" I described in the July 1993 issue of A.R.C., page 22. Whenever I want that 1920s feeling before drifting off to sleep, I pull out the filament control switch on the old AK and tune in some music — no fuss, no muss. Well, occasionally a little fuss from the wife, but fortunately for me, she endures the oddities of a radio buff.

I am not necessarily promoting Mr. Anthes' service over a do-it-yourself project or over anyone else who may offer a similar service. However, he is very knowledgeable on the subject. He was an engineer for Centralab from 1945 to 1953. He then designed a TV tube tester for servicemen and manufactured them from his own factory in Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin. His interesting article "The Complete History of Drugstore TV Tube Testers" appears in the April 1992 issue of A.R.C., pages 8-9.

Of course, the ultimate "high" for a 1920s radio addict is to be able to see those old tubes glow while music comes from the horn or headphones. But this tube conversion makes this experience no longer possible. However, if you want to save a little wear and tear on the "good" tubes and not mess with all the appropriate batteries or the battery eliminator, then you must consider today's "solid-state" tubes. Besides, who knows what tomorrow's technology might bring to antique radio collecting.

Feedback from "The Early Days of Harry Kalker"

CONTRIBUTED BY NORMAN KRIM, HY NESS, AND ALAN DUBOIS

In July 1994, A.R.C. published an article based on a tape recording by Norman Krim of the early radio musings of Harry Kalker whose career in radio spans over seventy years. Since then, Norman Krim has received a request from Mark Durenberger for a copy of the tape "to add to our master collection [at the Pavek Museum of Broadcasting in St. Louis Park, Minnesota] of reminiscences from the folks who helped build the industry." It's great to know that our article led to the preservation of another piece of radio history.

Other responses to this article from Hy Ness and Alan DuBois, reprinted below, are also gratifying reminders that our articles tap wonderful memories of the history of radio. (Editor)

From Hy Ness, Cranbury, N. J.:

Your article on Harry Kalker brings back vivid memories of my years at 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, where I was a surplus parts dealer from 1946 to the coming of the World Trade Center, after which I moved to 57 Warren St., a few blocks north near Chamber St.

Many a deal was consummated at the corner luncheonette on Cortlandt Street. When radio manufacturers couldn't get parts for their production lines during the Korean and Vietnam Wars, they sent their purchasing agents to Cortlandt St. on Saturdays and Sundays to get parts for their production lines for Monday morning business.

I guess I was lucky because I was working for the U.S. Army Signal Corps. When the war was over, there were no parts around to service the nation since the military had absorbed all the electronic material. At the cessation of hostilities, all the surplus became available and was being dumped by the War Assets Administration and sold directly to the public at advertised prices. Since everyone was clamoring for parts, the market was very fertile, and the surplus business boomed, along with the establishment of the authorized factory distributors.

My years in lower Manhattan bring back vivid memories of a bygone age. Now at the tender age of 80-plus, I am still in the electronic surplus business, but I am now buying and selling aircraft and helicopter parts as well. The future of the electronics age is unlimited, and one day we'll head for the stars. Best regards to Harry Kalker.

From Alan A. DuBois, Jr., Queensbury, N. Y.:

The story of early radio by Harry Kalker brought back memories for me. I was born in 1918. I remember living in what was called a cold-water flat, a k a "railroad flat." It was comprised of six apartments, two on a floor; water was one cold water faucet to a laundry sink in the kitchen, next to a coal cooking stove. Baths were a tub that was stored on the back porch until needed. We kids were bathed in the laundry tubs. The toilet was a common one at the back of the entry hall on each floor.

But, back to radio memories. We kids were told not to touch Daddy's radio stuff. My dad was building chassis for the radio circuits that were published in the New York Sun supplement. He hung each supplement featuring a new circuit diagram on the dining room wall. Every Saturday, he would take the 6-volt auto battery to the garage where he worked to get it recharged.

I also remember my patient mother heating a big copper soldering iron in the stove and throwing it out the third-floor kitchen window so that Dad could solder his antennas together. She put up with this radio mess until he scratched her good table and burned a hole in her good rug with battery acid. Then she ordered him to get rid of it.

I wonder if those New York Sun articles still exist in some newspaper morgue.

"Do you know me?

I started the world's first broadcasting station. I'm Charles Herrold, and between 1912 and 1917 I was sending music and news to an audience in San Jose, California, on a regular schedule. But while I may have been first, most people forgot all about me. Now there's hope; my story is told in this exciting new videotape from the creator of the award-winning PBS series 'Radio Collector.' It's available from the Perham Foundation. Don't leave home without it!"

Vacuum Tube Repair Wafers

These tube repair wafers are solid-state devices for quick and easy repair of early vacuum tubes. The wafer is installed by simply sliding it over the tube pins and reinserting the tube into its socket. If the filament is intact, but there is little or no emission, the filament may be lit for best visual effect. However, the tube can be open filament.

No change in radio operating voltages is required. Any number of tubes may be repaired in a radio. If wafers are installed on all tubes, the B+ voltage may usually be reduced without sacrificing volume or sensitivity. Performance will vary between radio models.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

ONE FREE 20-WORD AD for subscribers in each issue; additional words are 22¢ each. See details below. Classified ads sent by mail, fax or by any other method must be received (not just postmarked!) by Noon Eastern Time on the classified ad deadline date to guarantee inclusion in the current issue. Late ads are held for the following issue. Please enclose correct payment with all ads. Stamps or cash are OK for small amounts. (Canadian and other foreign advertisers, please see "Payment" on page 2 for methods.) "Free words" cannot be accumulated from month to month; free words must be requested when ad is submitted.

Faxed ads: Please see additional information on the inside front cover.

Please write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, especially when included with other A.R.C. correspondence. Include SUB# with ad. Ads may be sent in advance; but, write each ad on a separate piece of paper and indicate the month (or successive two months) you want the ad to run.

To minimize our typing errors: Please write legibly. Use both capital and small letters. Do not use a dash between words. Carefully write the following numbers and letters (especially in model numbers) since some can look alike; for example 1, l and I (the number one, the capital i and the small L.) Also: 0, O , o, Q and D; r and n; 6, b and G; V, U, u, v and Y; A and R; 5, S and s; 2, Z and z. We try to correct spelling errors, so when using an uncommon word or manufacturer which we might mistake as a more common word or manufacturer, note it so that we do not "correct" it. Editor's annotations are in [brackets].

Advertising is accepted only for early items related to radio, communication, etc. All items must be described fairly; reproductions, reprints and not-original items must be so identified. Advertisers must agree to respond promptly to inquiries and orders, to resolve problems promptly if the buyer is not satisfied, and to comply with a buyer's refund request on unaltered returned items.

The publisher reserves the right to edit ads without notification to the advertiser and to reject ads for any reason. Names other than the advertiser will be edited out of ads. Ads with non-radio-related items will be returned or edited unless the non-radio-related items are for trade of radio-related items, or they are incidental to and appear at the end of an otherwise acceptable ad. The publisher is not responsible for errors due to illegibly written ads or for any other reason.

Clubs: Since club activities receive free coverage on the Coming Radio Events pages, the free 20 words may not be used for club activity ads. See inside front cover for additional information.

LIBERTY VACUUM VALVE

A PURE ELECTRON DISCHARGE TUBE WONDERFULLY MADE

Honestly Guaranteed. Extremely Sensitive as a DETECTOR, AMPLIFIER, OSCILLATOR

Two Filaments. Operating Life 2000 HOURS. The Liberty Valve is not a Luxury but an Inexpensive Necessity.

WHAT is the Liberty Vacuum Valve? It is a modern Highly perfected Electron discharge tube to be used in the detection and Amplification of Radio signals and to perform the numerous thrilling experiments now appearing in the several Radio journals. In the Liberty Vacuum Valve a pure discharge of negative corpuscles of electricity known as electrons are liberated from the filament upon being heated. These negative electrons serve to conduct the current from the "B" battery across the filament plate space. The Liberty tube passes through 6 different evacuating processes and by the aid of special pumping devices a high vacuum is obtained with practically no gas present, thus eliminating critical plate voltage adjustments, a point of Superiority which will be appreciated by all.

THE LIBERTY VALVE IS THE EXPERIMENTERS IDEAL —NOTE ITS MERITS

Crystal detectors properly constructed give fair results but are decidedly unreliable. Actual tests of the Liberty tube have produced signals 11 times louder than the most sensitive crystal detector obtainable. It is not affected by jarring, exceedingly stable, is not easily charged by Statics, rigidly constructed consequently withstanding rough handling, when once adjusted will remain so indefinately and finally the Liberty Valve by its peculiar properties produces astounding results in Undamped Wave reception, truthfully, if space would permit we would be delighted to reprint from our files recent letters expressing delightful satisfaction from expert Radio men and institutions of learning who are using our tube to perform their experiments.

THE LIBERTY VACUUM VALVE filaments should be lighted from a 4 to 6 volt storage cell, we recommend our TRACO storage battery for this purpose as tests have proven them ideal. For the "B" battery we highly recommend our No. 103 Vacuum Valve battery of 40 Volts listed on next page.

Each Liberty Valve is individually and thoroughly tested in our Laboratory before shipping therefore the responsibility of you receiving a sensitive tube rests with us, and we guarantee each valve to be exactly as we have endeavored to represent them and should any defects be noticed upon the arrival of your tubes you will oblige us by immediately returning same for replacement.

Liberty Vacuum Valve, each ~~$5.50~~. $ 6- 50
